Emirates Brings Its Own Double Decker to London!

Starting Dec. 1, 2008, Emirates has brought its own form of double decker to the market in the shape of its gigantic new Airbus A380 aircrafts. Despite its colossal size, the Emirates A380 makes less than half the noise of a 747 jumbo jet and uses 20 per cent less fuel. Customers have really taken a liking to some of the new innovations like the onboard entertainment lounge, and onboard shower spas. The first two A380s delivered to Emirates were introduced on services between Dubai and New York in August and October. An Emirates A380 will serve Sydney and Auckland in February 2009.

World Travel Market Seminar 2008

The World Travel Market Seminar of 2008 has exhibited amazing growth in participation with a record turnout of 50,000 global participants. Three things can be said to have highlighted the exhibition; the WTM Global Economic Forum, travel technology to improve business and the growing importance of profitable responsible tourism.

Etihad Offers New Schedule For Peshawar
